

Building Blocks for 2012 canal

This map provides the reference to the various "building blocks" for the Central Canal, a near term action. Many of the actions are already approved through EIR/EIS processes. The goal of the Central Canal, according to various documents, is to increase diversion of the fresh water of the Sacramento to the pumps to allow for reliable water export to other locations in the State, and to create fish barriers to stop the fish from being entrapped and killed by the pumps.
